WATER QUALITY
Targeted Watershed Demonstration Program	MN BWSR	BWSR created the Targeted Watershed Demonstration Program and is seeking nominations for three to six project watersheds to participate. Eligible watersheds are those where the amount of change to achieve a water quality improvement is known, the types of actions required to achieve those results have been identified, and a significant amount of those actions can be implemented within a four-year timeframe. Priority will be given to watersheds where there are current water quality impairments or priority water resources near the tipping point of becoming impaired. Proposed watersheds should have the threat to the water resource clearly identified, a thorough understanding of the pollution sources and pathways within the watershed, and baseline water quality data against which change can be assessed.	Eligible applicants include Watershed Districts, Watershed Management Organizations, and Watershed-based Joint Power Organizations. Counties, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and formal partnerships of these organizations with a hydrologic watershed contained wholly within the partnership boundary are also eligible to apply. Applicants must be working under a current state approved and locally adopted water management plan.	$5,250,000; 25% cash match required (in-kind services are not considered a match)	All responses must be electronically delivered to BWSR.Grants@state.mn.us - 4:30 p.m. on August 29, 2014	http://www.bwsr.state.mn.us/grants/apply/Targeted_Watershed_RFI_FY15_FINAL.pdf	http://www.bwsr.state.mn.us/grants/apply/index.html
Great Lakes Shoreline Cities Green Infrastructure Grants	USEPA	EPA is soliciting grant applications from qualifying Great Lakes shoreline cities seeking funding assistance for green infrastructure projects that improve Great Lakes water quality. EPA is making available up to $4.5 million of Great Lakes Restoration Initiative (GLRI) funds for this purpose. Under the terms of this solicitation, the term "green infrastructure projects" refers to installations which, through the use of natural systems or engineered systems that mimic natural systems: 1) treat, slow or capture polluted runoff; and 2) reduce the amount or improve the quality of runoff that drains into Great Lakes nearshore areas or sewer systems that discharge into Great Lakes nearshore areas.	EPA is willing to match, dollar-for-dollar, any contribution the city makes, up to $250,000. EPA's contribution will help cover the city's cost of installing/implementing green infrastructure projects(s) on publicly owned property within city limits. Project costs may include costs for design, engineering, and/or working with stakeholders and residents; however, at least 75% of the total costs (EPA funding plus non-EPA funding) must be for on-the-ground implementation of green infrastructure. EPA will allow the use of in-kind services for up to 50 percent of the city's contribution.	$4.5 mil available; up to $250,000 match	1-Sep-14	http://www.epa.gov/grtlakes/fund/shoreline/	Sharon Jaffess, Acting Chief of the Great Lakes National Program Office - Policy Coordination & Communications Branch, (312) 353-0536; or Tina Davis, Shoreline Cities Project Coordinator, (312) 353-8254, jaffess.sharon@epa.gov and davis.tina@epa.gov
Regional Conservation Partnership Program	USDA NRCS	The NRCS is working to identify and address natural resource objectives and implement conservation practices and activities to deliver environmental benefits locally, regionally, and nationally. Through the new Farm Bill, NRCS has been given the authority to enhance regional cooperation to more effectively implement and maintain conservation activities, thereby promoting the restoration and sustainable use of soil, water, wildlife, and related natural resources on regional or watershed scales. NRCS will co-invest in mobilizing creative and workable solutions to agricultural production and resource management challenges. These solutions will benefit not only individual farming, ranching, and forest operations, but also local economies and the communities and resource users in a watershed or other geographic area that depend on the quality of the natural resources. Healing Our Waters	Freshwater Future	The Healing Our Waters-Great Lakes Coalition, formed in 2005, reflects a growing public awareness about the urgent need to protect the Great Lakes. The Coalition seeks to secure a sustainable restoration plan and the billions of dollars of state and federal funding needed to implement it. The coalition seeks to clean up sewage and toxic sediments, to restore damaged habitat, to protect high quality habitat, and to control and prevent the introduction of invasive species, each of which is an essential component of restoring the health of the Great Lakes ecosystem.	Any community based initiative working to restore aquatic habitats, who have received, or will be applying for, funding under the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative (GLRI) RFP or other federal funding sources. Any group acting as an effective stakeholder with project decision makers for federally funded restoration activities in their community.	awards up to $15,000	There is no deadline. Great Lakes Restoration Initiative - Partners for Fish and Wildlife	FWS	The Great Lakes Restoration Initiative targets the most significant environmental problems in the Great Lakes ecosystem by funding and implementing federal projects that address these problems. One goal is to improve habitat and wildlife protection and restoration. Using funding from the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Partners for Fish and Wildlife (PFW) Program anticipates funding wetland and associated upland habitat restoration and enhancement projects for conservation of native Great Lakes fish and wildlife populations, particularly migratory birds. Restoration projects will be completed on privately owned (non-federal/non-state) lands. Emphasis will be placed on, but not limited to, completing projects within the watersheds of Great Lakes Areas of Concern.	The PFW Program is a voluntary, incentive-based program that provides technical and financial assistance to private landowners to restore and conserve fish and wildlife habitat. The PFW Program is not a traditional grants program; it is a direct federal assistance program. The PFW Program does not solicit projects through a request for proposals. Instead, projects are developed in collaboration and with substantial involvement from PFW field biologists. In the Great Lakes, PFW biologists from eight states work directly with landowners to plan and implement projects based on priorities and geographic focus areas identified in a regional strategic plan.
